It uses JDF files. A JDF file contains the text extraction information, and allows you to save extracted text back to a.txt file. It's easy to install, just go to the "Tools -> Option -> LibreOffice Help" and select "Check Boxes and scroll down to the "Extract Text" tab, to install the tool, which is included in LibreOffice. After installing the tool, just open the PDF file of your interest and click on the "Tool menu at the top > Open" button. To save the extracted text, just right click inside the tool and click "Save in" and select the appropriate folder. By default, the tool will save the extracted text to "L:\[Shared\]". You may click on the "Save" button to save the extracted text to a.txt file, and again, by default, the tool will save the text to "L:\[Shared\][Your Name]_[File Name.txt]" A: You could use my poppler-pdf and poppler-tools (by Michael Hipp) to extract the text.
